COMPROMISE AGREEMENT & REDUNDANCY

SERVICES

www.partnerscompromise.com

Compromise agreements are frequently used to amicably end the employment relationship, particularly in a redundancy situation.

In order for the agreement to be binding employees need to take independent legal advice from a qualified solicitor and that's where we can help.

We have offices in London and meeting facilities all over the UK and do not charge for travel or waiting. As a team of expert employment solicitors we can help employees understand their agreements and where negotiations take place, we conduct these professionally, swiftly and discreetly.

We regularly assist employees of major institutions on their compromise agreements and are often brought in to advise a group of employees where large numbers are being made redundant.
